The purpose of this training is to help prepare first-time graduate students for teaching assignments and to complement the discipline specific teacher training that is provided in individual departments. The topics that we will cover are applicable to those who are teaching a class in any discipline and emphasize policies, give practical information, and introduce important campus contacts.

This year, UM Professionals and Professors will share classroom techniques for engaging students as well as tools and resources available to new graduate instructors. There will also be opportunities for networking with other graduate instructors.

- Management and Associated Resources: important information regarding class management as well as specific resources and policies which affect both instructors and students. Refreshments will be available.
- Instruction and Associated Resources: strategies and resources devoted to teaching and learning. A complimentary boxed lunch will be provided.

Please join us on Monday, August 14th. We look forward to meeting with you. Make plans now to attend this valuable training opportunity and don't forget to RSVP online! A complimentary boxed lunch will be provided.
